

The Power of Partnerships

Not only does Children's deliver the best clinical care at the bedside, through the power of partnerships we are engaged in cutting edge research that will improve pediatric care and therapies for children everywhere. The Pediatric Research Alliance brings Children's, Emory University, Georgia Tech and Morehouse School of Medicine together to enhance the health of children through innovative research efforts.

Only 4% of federal cancer research funding is earmarked for pediatric cancer research. Because of you, Children's is heavily invested in offering extensive clinical trials for our patients, cutting edge research in gene therapy, and developing new therapies that target tumors without damaging a child's growing body.

The Sharon McCollum Knight, Polo in the Pines Pediatric Cancer Research Fund

*Established
May 3, 2017*

Every medical treatment that's available today was discovered through research. Because of you, Children's is working to seek new treatments, medical techniques and methods of care to improve the health of children.

